NLGA WELCOMES ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR KELLIE WISE

The National Lieutenant Governors Association (NLGA) welcomes Associate Director Kellie Wise.

“Kellie brings to NLGA seven years of experience working for elected officials in a bi-partisan environment,” said NLGA Director Julia Hurst. “Her background includes time as lead staffer for a bi-partisan coalition on heroin and opioid abuse and as lead staffer for a higher education mentoring initiative for foster youth.”

Kellie spent seven years as Chief of Staff to the Hamilton County, Ohio, Commission serving two different Commissioners during her tenure. Kellie served in both the minority and the majority. She was the lead staffer on a consumer fraud project and she has worked on policies related to levies, public safety, economic development, sewer districts, the county budget, and more.

“I am enthusiastic and grateful to work with NLGA to help elevate and promote the important office of Lieutenant Governor across the country,” said Wise. “The NLGA is the premier organization providing professional development, leadership and collaboration opportunities among Lieutenant Governors, and I look forward to helping advance these efforts through our relationships with our members and partners.”

Kellie has done private sector and campaign fundraising and has planned stakeholder events. She has a strong communications background including earned, traditional, and social media. Kellie is a life-long resident of Ohio and is a graduate of Xavier University in Cincinnati, Ohio.

At NLGA, Wise will work with NLGA members, their staffs, and NLGA Partners and will be engaged in all aspects of providing service to the members and partners.
